CANTON ENTERED BY JAPS TO END 100-MILE DRIVE

(By the Associated Press)
Sweeping forward with evidently irresistible power, Japanese forces today entered Canton, vital south China supply center, and pushed to within 35 miles of Hankow, China's provisional capital.

"Utter confusion" as the invaders pierced Canton's first defenses was reported in advices to Hongkong. Government officials fled to Yungun, 92 miles north. A cement plant, power plant and other major utilities were dynamited — China's "scorched earth" policy of leaving nothing useful behind.

Entry into Canton came on the tenth day of Japan's swift drive 100 miles inland from the coast with an estimated 42,000 men.

Sporting suddenly after months of slow, costly progress against obstinate Chinese resistance in central China, Japanese declared at the same time that the eventual capture of Hankow now was a certainty.

Chinese Use Floating Mines

Chinese sent a flood of floating mines down the Yangtze river to hold off Japanese gunboats that were said to have passed Oeheng, only 35 miles away.

Land forces on the south bank were said to have captured Tayeh, 40 miles southeast of Hankow, and pushed on to the iron mining district nearer the capital. Japanese declared the northern column had taken Kishui, an important Chinese outpost 55 miles from Hankow.

In Budapest, a new Czechoslovak offer to settle Hungary's demands for her Czechoslovak minorities was said to be more liberal than any of three previous proposals but still to be unacceptable.

Well-informed sources said Hungary would appeal to Germany, Italy and Poland to compel Czechoslovakia to submit to the Hungarian demands by the end of the month.

'Burglar Trap' Passes Test; 'Shoots' Youth in Cottage

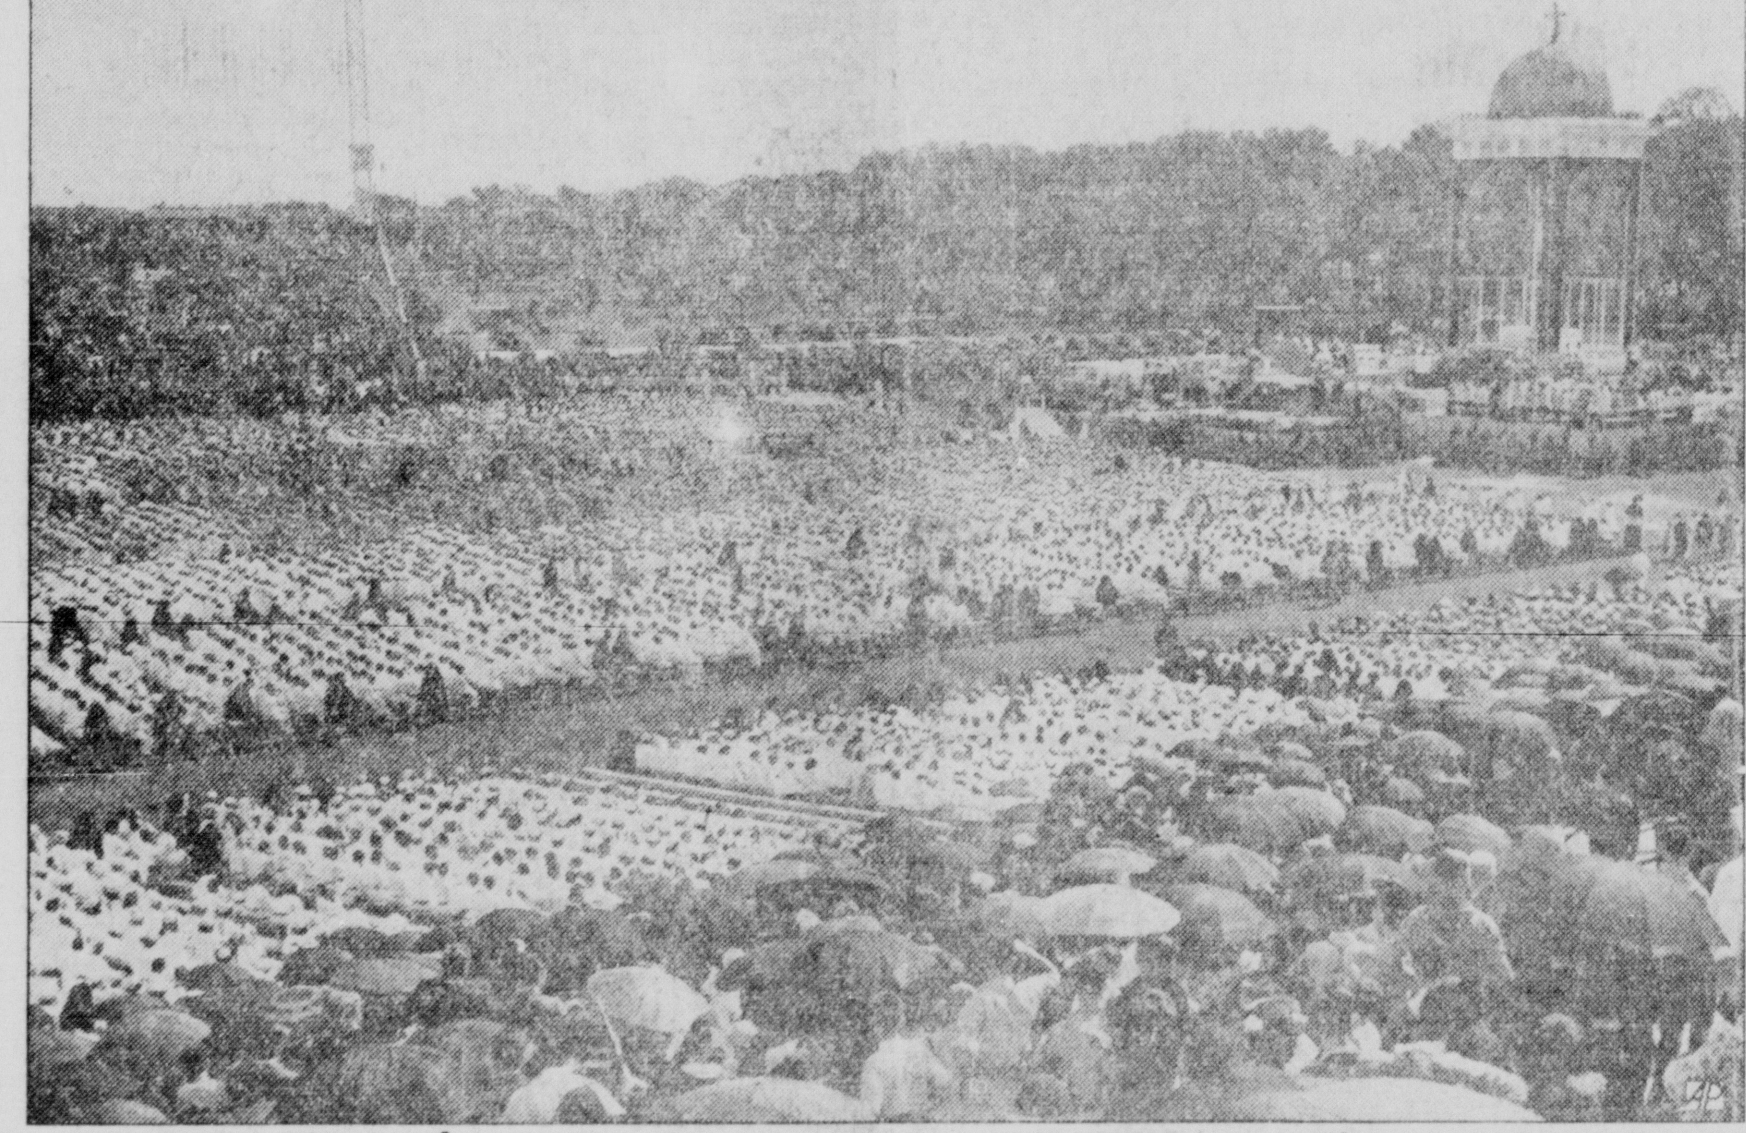

Reading, Pa., Oct. 21 (AP).—State Policemen Howard Soule told today how an Allentown antique dealer, who describes himself as a tinker, had rigged up a "burglar trap" with pieces of steel and wire which the officer blamed for the wounding of a 19-year-old youth.

Soule said the device was fashioned by Paul Weaver and installed in the cottage of Mrs. Mamie Allen, on the Berks-Lehigh line near Mertztown, which had been broken into a number of times during winter months.

The officer quoted Norman Katzer, 21, of Topton, as saying that he and a companion, Paul Stump, 19, of Alburtis, were in the cottage Wednesday night when Stump tripped over a wire. A volley of shots rang out, Katzer said, and Stump cried he was shot.

Thousands Attend Eucharistic Mass

Small Game Season Opens In Ten Days

With reports of an abundance of small game in most sections of Adams county, prospective nimrods already are securing their hunting licenses in large numbers as the opening day of the small game season approaches. One thousand hunting licenses had been sold up to noon today by County Treasurer Ray J. Kitzmiller at his office in the court house. That figure compares well with sales up to corresponding dates of previous years.

The season for hunting small game in this state opens in exactly 10 days—Monday, October 31, and continues through October 26.

To help take care of the expected rush of business during the remaining days before the first day hunters can take to the fields and woods with guns and dogs, Treasurer Kitzmiller has arranged to keep his office open for the special convenience of the hunters Saturday evening.

The treasurer's office will be open regular hours on Saturday and also from 6 to 9 o'clock in the evening. If necessary, Kitzmiller indicated he will announce special hours on one or more evenings next week.

The county treasurer pointed out today that new regulations require each applicant for a hunting license to fill out a printed form and to present some means of identification — automobile driver's license, social security card or some other satisfactory proof.

TO FACE CHARGE OF POINTING GUN

At a hearing that lasted for nearly three hours Thursday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer one charge against Mrs. Martha M. Grimm, Hamilton township, was dismissed, a new accusation made and her son, William Grimm, was held for action of the November grand jury on another charge.

Justice of the Peace Shealer dismissed a charge of stealing five hogs that had been filed against Mrs. Grimm by her tenant farmer, John A. Sheely. The justice said there was insufficient evidence to sustain the charge.

Then Sheely, on the advice of his attorney, laid a new charge of fraudulent conversion against Mrs. Grimm on a charge of wantonly pointing a shotgun at Sheely, who was the prosecutor on that count also. The justice reserved his decision.

Between the hearings for Mrs. Grimm, her son was given a hearing on a charge of wantonly pointing a shotgun at Sheely, who was the prosecutor on that count also. The justice held William Grimm for court and $300 bail was renewed.

Jap Typhoon Kills 226 and Injures 600

Tokyo, Oct. 21 (AP).—A typhoon roared in from the sea today taking at least 226 lives and injuring more than 500 persons. About 230 persons were missing.

The unseasonable storm which lashed waters overland along the coastal reaches of Japan in the Tokyo-Yokohama district and elsewhere rendered an estimated 3,500 persons homeless.

More than 24,460 houses in Tokyo were flooded and some collapsed. Thousands of trees were uprooted and Tokyo's communications and transportation were partly paralyzed.

Tens of thousands of workers were unable to reach places of employment in the capital and most schools were closed. The typhoon also caused much damage at Yokohama. All sailings from that port city were suspended.

Seven passenger ships scheduled to arrive at Yokohama this morning failed to dock.

The storm first struck the Kagoshima district of Kyushu, southwesternmost main island of Japan, and a few hours later swept into the Honshu mainland, hundreds of miles to the northeast.

Reports from Kagoshima prefecture said the area was devastated and 2,308 houses had been washed away.

The weather improved shortly after noon and the sun shone again on a vista of wreckage. The storm passed from Japan northeastward.

Charles W. (Daddy) Schick, of Chicago, who as a boy lived in Gettysburg and witnessed the Civil war engagement here, received the French decoration of a Knight of the Legion of Honor recently. The presentation, as described in the Chicago Daily News, follows:

"His voice thundered for adequate national defense when it was the fashion to destroy half-complexed American battleships, while some other nations merely tore up their naval architects' blue prints.

"He was one of the 'American Legion fathers' of the United States naval and air forces, which gave this country a sense of security in the troubled world of today.

"He knew warfare at an early age—when seven years old he heard the cannonade which was the earth-shaking overture to General Pickett's charge at Gettysburg. Later, he stood under the speakers' platform while President Lincoln delivered his battlefield address.

3 RIDERS HURT IN $545 CRASH AT NEW OXFORD

Three persons were injured, two so seriously as to require medical treatment, and two cars were badly damaged in a collision on the Lincoln highway west of center square in New Oxford about 4:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Cars operated by Alex R. Mattison, 38, Brooklyn, New York, and J. M. Boyd, 51, New Oxford R. 2, collided as Mattison drove east on the main highway and Boyd drove onto the main road from a borough alley on the south side of the street.

As Boyd drove onto the main road and attempted to make a left turn his car was hit by the Mattison auto. The Boyd car bounded over the curbing and came to rest against a tree on the Duterra property.

Mrs. Boyd, aged 48, suffered fractures of several ribs, a sprain and bruises of the back, while her husband received a severe cut near the left eye. Both were treated by Dr. Wilbur Miller, New Oxford. Mattison received contusions of the chest.

Both cars had to be towed to New Oxford garages. Damage to the New York machine was placed at about $200, while Boyd's car was damaged to the extent of about $325. Damage to the Duterra property was placed at about $20.

Officer W. W. Hoover, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, investigated the accident. He has not yet filed any motor code violation charges but is continuing his probe of the crash.

COUNTERFEITER GETS 18-MONTH PEN TERM; WIFE ON PROBATION

Charles and Rolande Bourgie, Montreal, who were arrested in Adams county on Sunday, October 2, for passing counterfeit twenty-five cent pieces in McSherrystown, were sentenced in federal court at Scranton Thursday by Judge Albert W. Johnson on four counts of passing counterfeit coins after they had been indicted and avoided trials by entering pleas of guilty.

Bourgie drew a sentence of a year and a half in a federal penitentiary, probably at Lewisburg, and three years on probation to date from the expiration of the prison term.

Mrs. Bourgie was shown clemency when Bourgie pleaded with the court to spare her from a prison term. Judge Johnson placed her on probation for two years.

The couple was sentenced on the first of four counts of passing worthless coins and sentence was suspended on the other three charges. The count on which the sentences were given was that involving the passage of the first counterfeit quarter at the Hip-Top inn in McSherrystown on October 1. Subsequent investigations brought to light three other bogus coins passed by the Bourgies.

Six persons who had gone to Scranton Wednesday morning to appear as witnesses against the French Canadians at their expected trial were in court but were not called upon to testify. The group included Sheriff B. W. Spence, who with Deputy D. J. Wolf arrested the pair the night of October 2 near Arendtsville where they had secured employment as apple pickers; Officer Joseph H. Salinger, of the state motor police; Officer William Trimmer, McSherrystown; Raymond Hipp, proprietor of the McSherrystown inn; Margaret Feeser, employed by Hipp, and a McSherrystown boy who found nearly 40 of the coins along the roadside near where the Bourgies were first taken into custody. The group returned here Thursday evening.

After their arrest here and a preliminary investigation the prisoners were turned over to George Van Fleet, a United States secret service agent, who prosecuted the couple.

The day after his arrest Bourgie admitted his real identity and told officers he had served a previous term in the Atlanta federal prison for counterfeiting and had a criminal record dating from 1923. Mrs. Bourgie was convicted in the previous case and deported. She is to be sent back to Canada again.

HIGHER INCOME TAXES SEEN TO MEET ARMS COST

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—Congressional tax experts are studying several proposals for increasing income taxes to finance an expanded armament program.

These experts—staff members of the joint committee on internal revenue—will make recommendations for tax legislation at the next session of congress.

Informed persons said an emergency 10 per cent increase in income taxes was one method under consideration. The increase would apply to both individual and corporate incomes. On the basis of this year's revenue estimates, it would yield an additional $200,000,000.

Tax authorities said the additional levy would be imposed for only a year or two, and would expire automatically at the end of the designated period. They asserted that it would be simple to compute, because a taxpayer merely would figure his tax on the present basis and then add 10 per cent.

Great Britain, faced with sharply mounting re-armament costs, already has adopted a similar emergency law.

Various proposals to reshuffle existing income tax rates also are being studied. These include one by Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) to reduce existing income tax exemptions from $1,000 to $800 for single individuals and from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons.

Consideration is being given to taxation needs in event of war. Senator Connally (D-Tex.) has suggested the imposition of drastic income tax increases in such a contingency. His proposal is designed to help finance war activities and, co-incidentally, hold down wartime profits.

Members of congressional tax committees are expected to discuss the various suggestions informally before congress meets. Revenue authorities said, however, that no definite program could be formulated until it is known precisely how much the administration will ask for defense.

President Roosevelt has said an extra $150,000,000 would be needed for naval construction, but additional outlays for the army have not been estimated.

MISSION BOARD RE-ORGANIZES

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 21 (AP)—an "unprecedented" shift in population was blamed today by the Rev. Dr. Zenan M. Corbe, of New York, executive secretary of the board of American missions of the United Lutheran church in America, for a situation in which many big-city churches once prosperous now are "threatened with extinction."

Doctor Corbe made the statement as the board met to consider the problem which he said was an "outgrowth of the depression" during the last 10 years.

The Rev. Dr. Henry J. Pflum, Jr., of Buffalo, New York, was re-elected president of the board, and the Rev. Dr. J. J. Scherer, Jr., of Richmond, Virginia, was chosen for another term as vice president. Henry F. Heuer, of Philadelphia, for six years secretary and not eligible for re-election, was succeeded by another Philadelphian, A. H. Burborow. H. Torry Walker, of Philadelphia, was re-elected treasurer. Chairman of sub-committee elected included: English missions, the Rev. Dr. Emil W. Weber, of Pottsville; church extension, the Rev. Dr. C. S. Simonton, of Harrisburg, and Latin America, the Rev. Dr. J. E. Harms, of Hagerstown, Maryland.

WRITER SELECTS NOTRE DAME AND MICHIGAN TO WIN

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Inadequately prepared for the ambush that undoubtedly lies just ahead, this corner more or less boldly hazards the following guesses on the outcome of this week's program:

Notre Dame — Carnegie Tech: Conquerors of Holy Cross, masters now of Bill Kern's Pitt football system and long-time jinx for the "Fighting Irish," Carnegie Tech believes it can win this one. Nevertheless this ballot, strictly unguaranteed, goes to Notre Dame.

Yale — Michigan: In the conviction that Michigan is one of the country's ten best teams, this vote goes to Wolverines despite the fact Yale always has been troublesome for Crisler-coached outfits.

Harvard — Dartmouth: The Harvards may have won moral victories over Cornell and Army but the payoff still is on the outfit which scores the most points, Dartmouth.

Fordham — Oregon: The Webfoots are strong, but Fordham rates the call.

Holy Cross — Georgia: On the rebound after the unexpected Carnegie Tech defeat, Holy Cross.

Stanford — Southern California: None figures closer than this. The coin says... South California.

Pitt — Southern Methodist: Couldn't pick anybody but Pitt.

Cornell — Penn State: Cornell, handily.

Temple — Boston College: Close enough, Temple.

Duquesne — Mississippi State: Take State and hope for the best.

Penn — Columbia: Two of last week's upset victims collide and the selection, out of the hat, is Columbia.

Navy — Princeton: Purely a shot in the dark, Princeton.

Iowa — Colgate: Colgate's done so well against major opposition that the Red Raiders seem to rate an edge over Iowa.

Michigan State — Syracuse: Hard to see how Syracuse can hold its peak here; therefore, Michigan State.

Purdue — Wisconsin: Enie meenie... Purdue.

Marquette — Texas Christian: Marquette spilled one southwest conference bet but it would be a minor miracle if Christian failed to win here.

Louisiana State — Vanderbilt: This represents cruel and unusual punishment for the selectors. A possibly mistaken vote of confidence in LSU.

Washington — California: California, breezing.

Skipping lightly over the chalklines otherwise: Brown over Rhode Island; Catholic over West Virginia Wesleyan; New York university over Lafayette; Georgetown over Manhattan; Rutgers over Hampden-Sydney; Army over Boston university; Amherst over Wesleyan; West Virginia over Creighton; Virginia over Maryland.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Oct. 21 (AP) — This should clear up the Don Budge situation... All the guy is waiting for (it's not the $25,000 difference between him and Jack Harris) but the national rankings... The minute he is named America's No. 1 amateur again, he'll turn pro in a hurry, unless all the dope we have is screwy, and will make his pro debut in Madison Square Garden January 9 against Ellsworth Vines... This may or may not turn out, but you can wait and see... That swell warbler you're hearing in the swanky La Conga night club these evenings is none other than Tommy Goodwin, the golfer who already has a New York state title or two under his belt, as well as a few on the Florida grapefruit circuit.

Jim Crowley, Fordham coach, now is a member of the Saints and Sinners club, one of our most exclusive... Henry Armstrong says he doesn't fear Ceferino Garcia's right hand punch—well he'd better... That Garcia can hit like nobody's business when he gets wound up and if you set anybody laugh that off, you're crazy... Yale had better be primed to the gills for Michigan... Fritz Crisler is doing a grand job out there and right now is our nomination for the country's top coach.

Some of the local papers have 'em getting Ed Williams out of the New York university, backfield to strengthen the team... All we have to say is that we covered the game with North Carolina and if Williams wasn't the best back on the field, you can sue... Even the North Carolina fellers will admit it, we believe... This guy gained more yardage than any other Violet back and he also was the goods on the defense... We just can't feature N.Y.U. leaving that colored boy out of its starting lineup... Have you noticed that Harry Kipke is broadcasting the Michigan football games?... Imagine his feelings... Lowell Dawson, Tulane's smart coach, admits that new daughter of his is a smart-looking youngster.

Felding H. Yost—his name means "Michigan football" to you fans—is in town and looks sprier than ever... He told Thursday night of a Michigan-Minnesota game in which the Wolverines scored one touchdown on a Statue of Liberty play and the second on a pass from a placekicker for field goal formation... The Gopher end came dashing in to smear the latter play and as he jumped in the air to block the kick, Benny Friedman got up and passed into the end zone for the touchdown... "Gosh darn it," cried the end, "that's the last play the coach told us to watch out for at the country club last night."

CHARLEY GELBERT'S chances of clinching a regular berth with the Washington Senators, who drafted him recently from Toledo, took a brighter aspect this week with reliable reports from Washington stating that Zeke Bonura, first baseman, is definitely to be traded during the winter. The rumor has it that Travis will take over Bonura's position with Gelbert assuming an infield position. Gelbert, who is now a member of the Gettysburg college football coaching staff, turned in a splendid record at Toledo both in fielding and hitting.

"Bill" Wood, former Gettysburg college football coach, and at present working secretary of the intercollegiate Y. M. C. A., Yonkers, New York, will be the guest speaker Monday evening at 7:15 o'clock in the college Y. M. C. A. at the annual gathering of Gettysburg college freshman football players, managers, coaches and sports writers.

BOY THROWN FROM AUTO; LACERATES LIP

A five-year-old boy, Donald Warren, Biglerville R. 2, was injured when an automobile in which he was riding struck the rear of a truck in Arendtsville Thursday.

The car was operated by Rodney C. Taylor, 19, Biglerville R. 2, and the truck by Otis Shultz, 56, Fairfield R. 2, Private A. Lashinsky, of the Gettysburg detail of the Pennsylvania motor police, reported.

Shultz, the policeman said he was informed, had stopped his truck in order to put on a sweater and Taylor's car crashed into the rear.

The Warren lad was thrown out and under the car and received a laceration of the lower lip.

His injury was dressed by Dr. J. L. Boyer, Arendtsville.

Damage to the Taylor machine was estimated at $175 and to the truck at $10.

Actress Killed in Fall From N. Y. Building

New York, Oct. 21 (AP).—Dorothy Hale, motion picture actress, plunged to her death early today from a window of her 16th floor room in the Hampshire house, exclusive hotel overlooking Central park.

Mrs. Hale, who a few years ago was described by a Hollywood producer as a "great movie find," was the widow of Gardiner Hale, of Chicago, who was killed in 1931 when his automobile went over a 500-foot cliff in California.

Detective James Leach, who made a preliminary investigation, said the actress may have fallen from the window when she attempted to open it shortly after she returned to her room at 6:20 a. m.

Reports that Mrs. Hale had become engaged to Harry L. Hopkins, W.P.A. administrator, were denied last summer.

Gettysburg--F. and M. Game Here Saturday a Toss-Up

All attendance records for home football games are expected to be shattered at Gettysburg college Saturday afternoon when Franklin and Marshall's undefeated team clashes with the Bullets in a game which will place the victor in first place in the Eastern Pennsylvania intercollegiate conference race. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

Probably no game on the Bullets' home schedule in the last decade has so caught the fancy of fans and it will take the poorest kind of weather to affect the attendance. Hundreds of F. and M. students and Lancaster fans as well as the college band will accompany the team here. Extra bleachers will be erected to accommodate the crowd which will be greatly augmented due to the Homecoming activities.

F. and M.'s invasion Saturday will be the first time in over 40 years the Diplomats have played here. The teams have clashed 45 times with the Blue and White emerging victorious 22 times while the Orange and Blue won 19. Four games resulted in ties.

Coaches "Hen" Bream and "Pete" Beeson have put in a busy week in preparing their squad for the game. With the exception of Johnny Yovicsin, end, who is a doubtful starter, the Bullets are in excellent physical condition and are in better shape than at any time since the start of the season.

Favorite Lacking

Despite the impressive record of the Diplomats the invaders are not looked upon as the favorites due to the two fine performances of the Bream-men against Drexel and Albright. From all indications the teams will be evenly matched with victory going to the outfit which displays the best charge and fight. Those who are forecasting a Gettysburg victory point to the 26-6 defeat handed F. and M. last year at Lancaster when practically the same team represented the Nevonians that will be on the field Saturday.

"Reds" Bender, fullback, and Harry Schard, tackle, returned to practice this week after layoffs due to injuries and both will be available Saturday.

Coach Bream announced his starting lineup this morning. "Bob" Plinchbaugh and "Hank" Burman will pair off at ends with Ashburn and Chester manning the tackle positions. Deardoff and Henry will probably start as guards although the recent work of Bailey and Glod may give them the nod. O'Neill will be at center with Utz stepping in for considerable work. Fulmer, Yunaska, Hamilton and Al Bender or Seth Bucklen will compose the backfield.

The probable starting lineup for F. and M. was not available. However, it is certain to include their two ace ball-toters, Sammy Roeder and Asplin. The former has scored 56 points in three games this season.

A huge pep rally will be held in the college gym this evening at 8 o'clock and will include entertainers and a radio broadcast. The public is invited to attend.

Every Day Is a Free Circus Day in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn.—Every day is circus day in Memphis. And—best of all—it's free.

The circus is a daily affair in the summer. Shows are held on Sundays during the winter, when the weather permits.

"The grown folks watch, too," says Melroy. "Sometimes on Sunday we have a thousand or more people standing."

"We started our free circus back in 1925. It's grown larger and more popular every year as new animals are trained and the workers develop new tricks and stunts. It doesn't cost the city anything in addition to the regular salaries paid the zoo employees, including myself."

Also available, at a nickle a ride, are plenty of zoo ponies, a miniature merry-go-round and other riding devices.

Mushroom cocktail is something new that can just "make" your fall or winter luncheon or dinner. Select six small cooked mushrooms for each service. Marinate them for half an hour in French dressing in the refrigerator. Serve in small glass cups lined with bits of lettuce. Top with tomato catsup mixed with a dash of horseradish and some lemon juice.

Hang small household articles used frequently on screw-eyes placed on inside of hall or bathroom cabinet or closet. They are then out of sight but within easy reach.

To help keep the inside of the medicine cabinet neat and attractive, paint frequently with enamel. You might try some contrasting or matching colors which will help carry out the room decorations.

To remove beer stains from linens, soak them five minutes in salt and cold water and then pour a stream of boiling water held at a height, through the stain until it disappears.

MAROONS MEET MECHANICSBURG

Gettysburg high school's football team will seek to regain its winning stride Saturday afternoon when it meets Mechanicsburg high in an important Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic league game at Mechanicsburg.

Despite the Maroons' reverse at the hands of Chambersburg last week the Maroons are given a good chance of upsetting the league-leaders. Mechanicsburg gained the top rating position in the circuit when it scored an upset triumph over Hanover last Friday, 19-13, capitalizing on several breaks after being outplayed throughout the better part of the game by the Nighthawks.

Beard, end, has fully recovered from a leg injury and will be in the starting lineup. His return gives Coach George Forney his full manpower for the game as the entire squad is reported in good physical condition.

Coach Forney is worried over the apparent mental let-down the squad has developed this week and stated this morning that unless its fighting spirit returns a defeat seems inevitable.

A bright spot in the workouts this week was the fine work of the reserve material. Last week Bigham, Carter, Gilbert and Berger performed in fine style as relief workers against Chambersburg and in scrimmage against Biglerville Wednesday evening several more of the reserves showed up well which may bring frequent changes in the lineup Saturday.

A victory for the Maroons would put them very much back in the running for league honors. Mechanicsburg has but three lettermen remaining from last year but have shown continued improvement each week and now rate as one of the favorites for league honors.

The Gettysburg high school band will accompany the team to Mechanicsburg.

An Evening Thought

It is right to be contented with what we have, but never with what we are.—Sir James Mackintosh.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson is Inducted as Eighth President of Gettysburg College with Record Crowd Present: Amidst a vari-colored umbrella procession, a crowd estimated at 1,600 persons, and a dignified induction ceremony, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, formerly pastor of Messiah Lutheran church, Harrisburg, became the eighth president of Gettysburg College on Friday morning.

Under the leadership of Dr. John B. McAllister, of Harrisburg, general chairman of the inauguration committee, the marchers moved from Glatfelter Hall to the tent where the induction exercises took place.

More than 100 schoolmen in academic robes were in the vanguard. Also in the colorful and distinguished group of marchers was Dr. J. A. Clutz, secretary of the board of trustees of Gettysburg College, bearing the official seal and keys of the institution; while Miss Mary Himes, the college librarian, carried the College charter, granted the institution in 1832.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, the president-elect, walked in company with John F. Dapp, of Harrisburg, president of the board of trustees.

Following a selection by a symphony orchestra from Harrisburg the invocation was given by Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner. This was followed by the singing of the College hymn "Blessing and Honor and Glory and Power."

Dr. William J. Gies followed with a brief salutatory address. Dr. Hanson was inducted as eighth president of Gettysburg College by John F. Dapp, president of board of trustees of the College. Into the hands of Dr. Hanson he placed the official seal and key of the institution.

In accepting the presidential chair, Dr. Hanson said he was deeply conscious of the great heritage committed to his stewardship. . . .

Dr. John B. McAllister presented the visiting schoolmen to the assembly. Dr. Charles J. Smith, president of Roanoke College, Virginia, then presented the combined greetings of the visiting schoolmen to Dr. Hanson and the audience, greetings from the faculty were presented by Dr. Milton H. Valentine; greetings from the alumni by Henry W. Bickle, Esq.; and greetings from the student body by Frederick E. Reinartz.

Dr. P. M. Bickle, dean of the College, brought the exercises to a close with the benediction, after which the audience sang "Alma Mater."

Dr. Stable Presents Phi Psi with New Home. With informal exercises, the new Phi Psi home on the college campus was officially presented to the active chapter by Dr. George D. Stahley in behalf of the alumni. Donald K. Weiser, of Gettysburg, received the house for the chapter.

Recent visitors to the Misses Adams at Fair-View, Peach Glen, were Lincoln A. Young, of Los Angeles, California; his sister, Miss Frances A. Young, of Baltimore; and Dr. and Mrs. John L. Carver, of New York City.

Mrs. E. S. Faber has returned to her home on Chambersburg street after a six months' visit with her daughter, Mrs. L. A. Day, Denver, Colorado.

Miss Bess Carrie Miller, Arendtsville; Miss Carrie Miller, Miss Helen Culp and Miss Elizabeth Rummel, of town, were guests at Graeffenburg Inn over the week-end.

James Gilliland, who is attending the University of Pennsylvania Law School, Philadelphia, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gilliland, Carlisle street, over the week-end.

Anxiously she waited. Balmy was there only a short time, then away he went towards the mines, plodding through the snow with a determined step. A few moments later Angus Gregory catapulted after him. They met on the trail, and against the white background the black of Angus Gregory's figure was eloquent of anger. His arms shot out and up and all but came down on the motionless figure of Old Balmy. And then the Gregory hands were clasped behind the Gregory back and Angus stalked home.

"And that seems to be that," murmured Angus Gregory's daughter. "Balmy won't give in." She sighed half in relief, half in worry.

She would see the old man the next afternoon. Bridget and she were scheduled to have tea with him as usual. In the meantime there was to be a dance at The MacDonald Hotel.

Mayme had seen to it that they would attend. Donald and Norman offered to act as further escorts and Mrs. MacDonald smilingly told them she felt sure they would need a chaperone.

Mayme arrived early, saw the simple street frocks and exclaimed: "Oh you ain't dressed yet."

She revealed she was properly frocked in rose colored satin. The girls exchanged glances and hurried upstairs. They had brought formals for such an emergency. Kathleen dressed with a sense of triumph. For once she could appear before Donald MacDonald as herself. With the cloudy weather the freckles were disappearing, her hair was growing long, a damp comb and Bridget's deft fingers had laid a smooth wave in the burnished depths.

Mrs. MacDonald, looking up as Kathleen entered, caught her breath and discreetly lowered her eyes. That simple gown of gold cloth might deceive the eyes of a man as to its cost, but not those of a woman who knew and purchased nothing but exclusive models.

She glanced at her son. He was staring at Kathleen as though he'd never really seen her before. "I'm a romantic old fool," thought his mother.

Kathleen was also watching Mrs. MacDonald's son, and what she saw pleased her. He strode towards her both arms outstretched, caught her hands in his and smiled down at her. "Faith, ye fair blind my eyes," he said softly.

But Donald claimed the first dance with Bridget. Mayme's "boy friend" took Kathleen for the second, Norman having taken the first and looked over her shoulder to where Donald's head was lowered to Bridget's.

Ruined Evening Eventually she found herself in Donald's arms—strong, sure arms that guided her deftly about the crowded floor. For a little while she could forget his being a MacDonald, give herself up to the sensuous music, the exquisite rapture of melody and rhythm.

"I've always considered the phrase, 'you dance divinely,' a cliché invented for gigolos," murmured young MacDonald.

Kathleen leaned back to look up into the dark blue disturbing eyes. "And now?" she asked, expectantly. MacDonald looked away abruptly. "And now, since dancing with Bridget, I know it's been under-estimated."

"It does make a difference with whom one's dancing, doesn't it," she queried sweetly and came down on his foot with a vicious stomp of her spike heel.

The evening was ruined for both of them. Donald nursed a bruised instep and Kathleen a bruise she couldn't locate. It wasn't pride, it went deeper than that.

That night, the formal gown, a discarded mass left on the floor, she crept into bed determined to return to New York with her father. She hoped he'd gain the necessary proof of claim priority from Balmy and close down those damned MacDonalds' source of income.

And then she hoped they wouldn't have to close down and that she could stay and help Bridget win MacDonald. It would be like pressing an ulcerated tooth, a form of self martyrdom but then she felt like a martyr.

Bridget watched her anxiously the next morning. She was marching about the house, her hands clasped behind her. The Irish girl was relieved they were going to Balmy's; the old fellow had a soothing effect upon this red head.

Balmy's table was set for five when the girls entered shaking the snow from their shoulders. The other two guests entered immediately after, Angus and Beatrice Gregory.

Balmy watched for a moment. "We've met before," Angus told him. "Kit-Smyth had the young ladies prepare the house for us the day they came. They did an excellent job."

Talk was general until after tea was over, then Mr. Gregory cleared his throat and said: "About those letters my father wrote you. You don't mind me looking at them?"

Beatrice explained to the girls. "My father and Mr. Campbell were boyhood friends. They corresponded after my father came to this country. I dare say the letters Mr. Campbell has kept are most interesting. They would reveal the early life here."

Kathleen's eyes widened. So, her grandfather had written of the strike, the filing of the claim, and probably of the feud. Those old letters, bearing the stamp of the pony express, would be documentary proof.

She looked at Balmy anxiously. "I have willed the letters and trophies to your daughter, Master Gregory. At my death they go to her, not before. But if you wish to hear—"

"I want to see," intercepted Angus gruffly.

"A look at the cots is what you should take, sir," countered Balmy, and somehow the talk was skillfully turned to needed repairs.

"How About Murder?"

Soon after dusk the four guests found themselves on the trail towards the Gregory house.

"The most ungrateful, stubborn man I ever encountered," Gregory snapped, his anger at Bridget forgotten in his anger at Old Balmy. "I explained what those letters would mean to us do you know what he told me?"

He didn't wait for an answer. "He told me he was afraid to give them to me. He said he'd be putting a weapon in hands of hatred and disaster would follow. He said—"

"Can't you have him subpoenaed into court?" inquired Bridget.

"Bah!" snorted Angus. "His word without the letters would mean nothing. And I'm afraid if I start anything he'll destroy them."

"Kathleen," he wheeled on his daughter, "you say you love these Gregory miners. All right, prove it."

Today's Talk

LONELY FOLKS

I HAVE never met anyone who didn't get lonely—even the apparently happy. Something in the human soul is forever hungering for that which it seems to lack.

Before the crucifixion, Jesus got lonely and went into the quiet of the mountain-side to pray. Washington got lonely and so did Lincoln, when everything seemed to grow dark about them in the midst of travail, when even hope grew faint in their hearts. Poe was a tragic figure in his loneliness. Wendell Phillips used to walk the streets of Boston—lonely for a friend.

Everybody is lonesome at times. People in little villages, upon farms, in out-of-the-way places, even among those in the crowds of the city. Look into the faces of those whom you pass on the street—and what a look of loneliness seems to be stamped upon them. Loneliness seems to be an inheritance of us all. I often think of the loneliness of those who are shut-in and of those ill in hospitals. Patiently lonely.

We all get hungry for understanding, for companionship, for nourishment that lifts the spirit and gives new substance to faith.

What is the antidote? I know of nothing unless it is work, honest striving, and purpose, constantly renewed with a sense of brave attempting. People who early cultivate a love of beauty, an enthusiasm for the wonders of nature, and who have learned the art of patiently forgetting their losses, gain most out of this adventure of life. Most of us are nourished by compensations.

We can know the great of this earth through their books and their recorded deeds. We can travel the earth in our own secluded corner. We can own much of the wealth of him who has gathered it, but who has never known its appreciation. The wealthy are often the loneliest of people.

We are less lonely when we carry in our hearts the spirit of personal triumph over the petty things that so many allow to lead them to disappointment and failure.

Chapter 20

Stalemate

THE days passed and Kathleen watched her father from the windows of the lodge, unable to signal him without attracting Mrs. MacDonald's attention, and held back from revealing her identity by some unanalyzed fear.

Saturday afternoon she was startled to see Kit-Smyth drive up, deposit Old Balmy, and this during his shift hours, then drive away again.

Anxiously she waited. Balmy was there only a short time, then away he went towards the mines, plodding through the snow with a determined step. A few moments later Angus Gregory catapulted after him. They met on the trail, and against the white background the black of Angus Gregory's figure was eloquent of anger. Soon after dusk the four guests found themselves on the trail towards the Gregory house.

"The most ungrateful, stubborn man I ever encountered," Gregory snapped, his anger at Bridget forgotten in his anger at Old Balmy. "I explained what those letters would mean to us do you know what he told me?"

He didn't wait for an answer. "He told me he was afraid to give them to me. He said he'd be putting a weapon in hands of hatred and disaster would follow. He said—"

"Bah!" snorted Angus. "His word without the letters would mean nothing. And I'm afraid if I start anything he'll destroy them."

"Kathleen," he wheeled on his daughter, "you say you love these Gregory miners. All right, prove it."

He's left the letters to you. I think he knows who you are. It's up to you to get them away from him; steal them if necessary, they're going to be yours."

Kathleen stopped, snow whirling about her, face white in the dusk. "Is there anything else you would have me do for that damned right-of-way?" she inquired. "How about murder, that's something you left out."

"Do you realize you are talking to your father, young woman?" demanded Beatrice.

Kathleen realized it and the realization made her feel ill.

Angus turned to her. "Daughter, you don't understand. You can't understand how much depends upon this. It isn't just us; just the Gregorys and the Gregory miners, but our stockholders; everything!"

Kathleen waited a moment. "And if I should be able to obtain those letters for you, what would you do about the MacDonalds?"

"Bah!" breathed Angus. "I'd show them what happened to MacDonalds who tried to fight a Gregory. I'd close them down so tight they'd never be able to open again."

They walked, and as they neared the Gregory house, Kathleen stopped them. "I'll bargain," she conceded. "You give me a statement that will hold in court, that you will not interfere with the MacDonald mine, and that you will give the Gregory miners decent houses, and I'll try to get the letters for you. I think I could do so under those circumstances."

"You're crazy," Gregory breathed heavily. "I might concede the housing, though I don't know how. Production costs are sky high and the value of gold is down, but give in to those damned stiff necks who have fought me for the last six years? Never!"

"Cheerio," said Kathleen. "I'll be seeing you, but not with the letters in my hands."

She turned towards the MacDonald house. Donald MacDonald, the shoulders of his coat, white with snow arose as she entered. She quivered under the burning contempt in his eyes, went hastily to her room.

He had just come in, had he overheard? Why else would he look at her that way?

ANDREWS SEEKS 'COMMON SENSE' WAGE-HOUR HELP

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—Administrator Elmer F. Andrews sought today what he calls a "common sense" solution of the innumerable problems of re-adjustment which industry faces under the wage-hour law.

Informed persons said he hoped many differences between employers and employees over application of the act to individual firms would be reconciled without resort to the courts. Even if this hope is realized in most instances, it was explained, indications are that the courts will be swamped with suits within a few weeks after the law becomes effective Monday.

Some officials privately expressed apprehension lest the number of cases would tax the courts' capacity, but others predicted the co-operative attitude already evidenced by both management and labor would hold legal actions to a minimum.

Andrews said Thursday leaders of both the C.I.O. and the A. F. of L. had assured him that insofar as organized workers were concerned, they would attempt to hold down legal contests during the early months of the law.

Court tests are expected to arise not only over the broad principle of federal regulation of wages and hours but also over the many details of compliance. Every interpretation of the law by the administrator is subject to judicial review. Any time a worker believes his employer is not living up to the law he may go into court in an effort to end the alleged violation.

Thus such questions as what constitutes a professional man, how overtime should be figured, what the qualifications are for an executive, and many others may be answered finally only by the judiciary.

On most of these controverted points Andrews has given or will give his official view. He often has distinguished between the moral intent and legal provisions of the law and has expressed the hope that employers would take what he considers to be their moral obligations into consideration in re-adjusting hours of work in terms of weekly pay.

Although the administrator may go into court to force compliance, indications are that Andrews will make limited use of this power at the outset.

On Monday he will have in the field a force of only 20 inspectors and four regional supervisors. Most of their time will be taken in filing requests for information. When funds become available, he said, this force will be increased.

BABY EXPERT

San Francisco—Lulu, a favorite at a local zoo, will have expert care for her blessed event next month. The city father appropriated $200 for a giraffe maternity specialist. Lulu and her mate, William, are said to be the only breeding giraffes in the country. They already have one colt, born last year.

RE-INFORCEMENTS NEEDED

Santa Fe, N. M.—Policemen had trouble holding up their pants after receiving new equipment consisting of tear gas, nightsticks, holsters and gas bombs. Stout, old-fashioned galluses solved the problem. "A belt," said Chief Tom Delago, "isn't enough, anymore, with all this artillery hanging from our waists."

RECORD HUNT

Omaha, Neb.—Joseph P. Gallagher says he is 70, but is having a difficult time proving it so he might qualify for a pension. He couldn't find records of his birth, baptism, first communion or confirmation. He did, however, find his name on the Creighton college roster of 1884, but his age was not entered. His last hope: That his prep school at Prairie Du Chien, Wisconsin, might have his age recorded.

TACKLING HIS OLD JOB

Elmhurst, Ill.—Harold Haas began playing tackle for Elmhurst college in 1929 and he'll be in there at the same post in the game against Carthage Saturday. No college will protest his eligibility, however. Haas played in 1929 and 1930, dropped out of school for eight years, and is back for his diploma. The old veteran beat out a bunch of young fellows for his regular line position.

Isamu Noguchi, 34-year-old American-born Japanese, won the Associated Press' nation-wide competition for designing a bronze panel for the main door to the new AP building at Radio City, N. Y.

Explain Wage-Hour Law

(Editor's Note: The wage-hour administration has been swamped with inquiries about operation of the labor standards act, which becomes effective Monday. The following article presents in question and answer form some of the important facts both employers and employees are seeking. The information given, while in no sense official, is based on opinions and rulings of wage-hour authorities. Final determination of many of the questions here raised will rest with the courts.)

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—Who makes all the rules and regulations under the wage-hour act?

Administrator Elmer F. Andrews. Are his opinions final?

No. Appeal may be taken from any ruling to the courts, which are the only final authority on the wage-hour law.

Who decides whether an individual employer should comply with the act and which of his employees are covered by it?

The employer himself must decide, aided by Andrews' rules and advisory opinions.

How is the wage-hour act to be enforced?

Through a field staff working under Administration Andrews, through state departments of labor and through the courts, where workers or other persons directly interested in enforcement may bring suit.

Are certificates of compliance to be issued to firms which abide by the law?

Not immediately, although eventually it may be decided to issue them. Officials say there will be no symbols of compliance such as the "Blue Eagle" of N.R.A. days.

Are purely intra-state industries in any way subject to the act?

No.

What is the status of a business which sells only a limited portion of its produce in interstate commerce?

There has been no exact official answer to this question. Each employer must decide for himself whether his firm actually is in interstate commerce and therefore subject to the law. Administrator Andrews has advised those in doubt that their only safe course is to comply. The courts are the final authority.

Is a producer who sells a partly finished produce to a processor in the same state for shipment in interstate commerce subject to the act?

In the opinion of wage-hour officials, he is if he knows his product is going into interstate commerce.

If an industry sells its product entirely within a state, but gets raw materials or supplies from outside, is it in interstate or intrastate commerce?

There has been no answer to this question. Each employer must decide for himself, but the wage-hour administration will advise him on what his status may be. The courts are the final authority.

If an employer is paying higher wages than his competitors, may he reduce wages to meet competition so long as he observes the legal minimum of 25 cents an hour?

The act, in the words of the administrator, "contains a pious wish" that this should not be done, but apparently there is no legal barrier to doing it.

REV. PUGH INSTALLED

HOUSE PROBERS TO STUDY DATA OF PHILA. FIRM

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 (AP)—The house campaign charges committee, studying purported financial transactions involving Governor George H. Earle and Senator Guffey (D-Pa.), sought first hand information today on records of the Bankers Securities corporation.

Abram Salsburg, counsel for the committee, and Morris Root, an accountant and former republican assemblyman, arranged to inspect the corporations audits and reports in connection with testimony concerning investments by Earle and Guffey in the New York Post.

The financial deals were brought into the inquiry at Harrisburg through testimony of former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti and Albert M. Greenfield, chairman of the board of directors of the financial house.

Root, subpoenaed before the committee to tell if he knew anything about what Chairman Herbert B.
Cohen termed the "Willie Jones exposes," was excused temporarily and instructed to produce at the committee's next hearing, Tuesday, original reports of audits his tax-accounting firm made for the Bankers Securities corporation of the Earle-Guffey-New York Post transactions.

Margiotti had told the committee
a "William Jones" mailed him photostatic copies of the financial firm's records. Greenfield connected Root's name with the records.

At Thursday's hearing, Cohen said he received a telegram signed "William Jones" from Philadelphia.
Without disclosing its contents he turned it over to the committee's counsel and asked the telegraph company to trace the sender.

The projected Dauphin county grand jury investigation of the campaign charges, meanwhile, encountered further delay. Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, especially presiding, instructed Attorney General Guy K.
Bard and District Attorney Carl B.
Shelley to file briefs and offer argument next Wednesday on Bard's challenge of Shelley's eligibility to conduct the grand jury inquiry.

Judge Schaeffer, who is to decide the issue, noted that then he would "need time to prepare a written opinion" and couldn't "even speculate on when it will be handed down."

THREAD SOLVES MYSTERY

Danville, Pa., Oct. 21 (AP)—A spool of thread solved the mystery of how walnuts were disappearing from William T. Deeter's cellar. He tied the thread to a walnut and the unwound fibre led him to a wood-shed and a peck of his walnuts—cached by a squirrel.

SHARES HARVEST

Berwick, Pa., Oct. 21 (AP)—Luther P. Creasy, fruit grower, shared his harvest with children at the Germantown orphan's home. He invited members of the congregation of the St. John's Lutheran church to pick 100 bushels of apples in his orchard for the home.

BANK CHECKS and MILL WHEELS

Do you realize how your checking account balance is like the stored-up water behind the mill dam? It creates the power which turns the wheels of banking service for you.

But if your deposits are a thin trickle with no reserve force back of them, the checking account machinery cannot turn unless the bank turns it for you at its own expense.

Depositors who do not find it convenient to maintain a fair balance may properly reimburse the bank for what it has had to spend to give them service.
